From Editors Desk

Reflecting on the progress and development of society on International Women's Day, we still ponder whether women are empowered in true sense. In general the reserved and biased attitude of society towards women has imbalanced the social structure. The need of the hour is go for a structural shift leading to gender equality and women empowerment, and all pervasive inclusiveness. The 2024 theme "Invest in Women: Accelerate progress" posed questions to policy makers on women related issues like gender gap and disparities, safe workplace, increased participation in leadership roles in all sectors and many more . Keeping aligned with the theme we need to become action oriented and help women to cherish her dignity, Justice, hope, economic emancipation and social solidarity to achieve much desired progress and stability. Let's unite in our efforts to accelerate action of hearing women voice, upholding her rights and helping her realize her dreams.
